Anne Chapman joins Osborn Maledon, P.A.

The Phoenix law firm of Osborn Maledon, P.A. announced today that Anne Chapman, an experienced litigator who was a central member of the trial team for Zacarias Moussaoui, will join the firm.

Ms. Chapman, whose practice focuses on criminal defense and commercial litigation, spent the last five years in the Federal Defenders Office for the Eastern District of Virginia. She has extensive experience appearing in federal court and has defended cases involving a broad range of issues, including the Classified Information Procedures Act, criminal copyright and trademark allegations and international money-laundering conspiracies.

“Anne will be an excellent addition to the Osborn Maledon team,” said Jones Osborn, managing partner of the firm. “She has unique federal experience that will serve our clients well.”

Ms. Chapman, who received her Juris Doctorate, cum laude, from Duke University School of Law, has extensive speaking and teaching experience on issues related to the use of victim outreach, directing and conducting international investigations and mitigation in capital cases.

She received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Federal Defenders in May, 2006.

Osborn Maledon, P.A. is a Phoenix law firm of 51 attorneys that provides litigation, business and general counsel solutions for its clients’ needs. It has won national recognition from Chambers USA, which in 2007 ranked its corporate, general commercial litigation and white collar crime litigation practices in the highest ranking among Arizona firms. It includes a number of U.S. Supreme Court law clerks among its attorneys; five sitting U.S. and state judges came from the firm.
