Osborn Maledon attorney recognized by Lawdragon

David Rosenbaum, a partner in the Phoenix law firm of Osborn Maledon, P.A., has been named one of the top 100 securities litigators in the nation by Lawdragon, a national legal ranking and media firm. He is the only Phoenix attorney on the list.

The prestigious Lawdragon list is chosen through a combination of online balloting and independent research. A total of 50,000 lawyers, judges and corporate counsel were contacted this year in the nomination process.

“There is no hotter field than securities litigation,” Lawdragon said in releasing the list. “The past decade has seen serious efforts to severely curtail shareholder lawsuits, including successes in Congress, the Supreme Court and the elimination of two of its leading practitioners. But as quick as you can say ‘subprime,’ the party is once again in full swing.”

Rosenbaum’s practice focuses on complex commercial litigation and state and federal courts. He has represented public corporations, officers and directors of companies in securities fraud and derivative actions. His clients have included Fortune 50 companies.

A past president of the Phoenix Chapter of the Federal Bar Association, Rosenbaum also chaired of boards of Community Legal Services and the William E. Morris Institute for Justice. He currently serves as President of the Foundation of the Federal Bar Association. He has received numerous awards, including the Judge Learned Hand Award for Community Service and the President’s Award from the State Bar of Arizona. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania who received his law degree from Georgetown University.
